(formerly titled- Interpreting Medical Information in Child Abuse Investigations)

Class size limit of 35

Description: Childhood injuries are extremely common. Accidents happen - but so does child abuse. Child abuse affects over one hundred thousand children, with over 100 abusive deaths, in Illinois every year. Law enforcement personnel play a critical role in investigating injuries to a child and determining if a crime has been committed. With stakes this high, how does an investigator determine if an injury to a child is abuse or simply an accident? Medical information can be one of the most effective tools in child physical abuse and death investigations, if investigators know the right questions to ask and how to interpret "medical lingo".

Overview: This sixteen-hour course is specifically designed to provide law enforcement investigators with the tools necessary to effectively assess child physical abuse injuries and child death cases. This dynamic and interactive course relies on the intuition of participants to "investigate" real cases by examining evidence from injury photos, medical information, scene investigation, and interviews.
